

local food producer education & training program

Tips and Techniques of Annual Crop Planning

Winter 2018 in Western, Central and Eastern Iowa

Learn about tips and tools to increase production, expand your markets and plan for the 2018 growing season. Workshop topics will include: calculating seeds and transplants, record keeping, succession planning, field layout, rows vs beds, expanding and diversifying yields, and selling to institutions (emphasis will be on K-12 Farm To School programs).

Iowa Valley RC&D Food Systems Director, Jason Grimm, will guide the workshop with case study scenarios, example tools, and discussion between attendees.

This project was supported by the USDA Farm to School Grant Program.

January 13th - FarmTable Delivery - 10:00 AM - Noon

1901 Hawkeye Ave Harlan, Iowa 51537

January 23rd - Heartland Acres Event Center - 1:30 - 3:30 PM

2600 Swan Lake Blvd. Independence, IA 50644

Workshops are Free Registration
Please RSVP to Jason Grimm before attending

Iowa Valley RC&D is 501c3 nonprofit that is place-based and uniquely built to address varied local needs and concerns. Our team works with local communities to grow their economies, strengthen their food systems, foster protection and enhancement of natural resources, and develop awareness for area art, history, and culture. We facilitate partner collaboration, solve problems at a system level, and leverage resources to get more done. Our expertise is in food systems and placemaking.

More Information

Contact Jason Grimm

jason@ivrkd.org or 319.622.3264

